

December–March

During the winter apple trees have no leaves, no flowers and no apples. Just like you sleep every night to store up energy, apple trees sleep all winter to store energy to make apples for the fall.